Payment of Double Interest On Road Bond Issue Charged

Senate Calls for Information on Agent Fees and Bond Issues

HUGE SUM INVOLVED

Report 9½ Per Cent Interest Charged State Over Six Month Period

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—The Senate Wednesday called for information on whether the state had paid double interest on a highway bond issue for six months last year, the amount of fiscal agent fees paid, and for details on road improvement district bond issues now proposed to be refunded.

A resolution by Senators Bailey and Kimzey, which was adopted, declared it was reported that the state paid a fiscal agent fee of $225,000 for negotiating a short term bond issue of 15 million dollars, dated January 15, last year and a long term bond issue of the same amount, dated July 15, last year. It stated, it was reported, that the short term loan was made at the rate of four and three-quarters per cent and the long term loan at five per cent "and that the state was required to pay double interest, or nine and three-quarters per cent from January 15 to July 15, 1931."

The state note board, the highway commission and the auditor "asked" for this information.

The House received a new revenue bill by Representative Brown of Cleveland county, embracing practically the same features of a bill introduced before the Senate Tuesday, except it merely extends maturities ten years instead of 10 to 23 years.

Cannon Supplies Diversion
Late Tuesday afternoon attention of the House was diverted from legislative matters to an academic discussion of the "evils and blessings" of free speech by a motion of Representative Curtis Cannon of Hempstead county that reporters for the Arkansas Gazette be barred from the press table.

In explanation, Cannon said: "A staff representative of the Gazette is here for the sole and only purpose of casting slurs at members of the House. That paper had rather print a damned lie than the truth any time."

Representative John T. Owen of Polk county seconded the motion, but when he was recognized to speak in favor of the motion, he gave a reason entirely different from that offered by Cannon for wanting the Gazette representative excluded.

"I want this Gazette man put out of here because I don't want the outside world to know what we are doing up here," said Mr. Owen. "The Gazette is about the only paper I know of that will print the truth fearlessly. Personally, I don't want the folks back home and elsewhere to find out about all the antics we pull and for that reason I think it would be a good idea to bar the Gazette reporter."

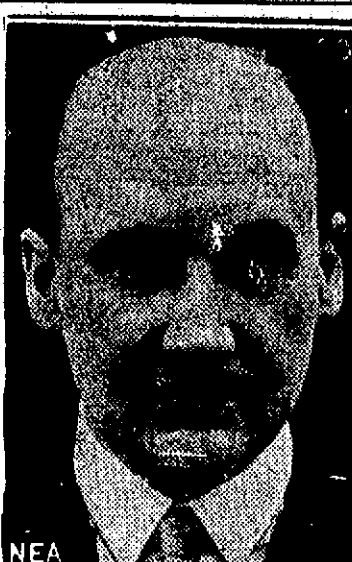

Opposition Views Given
Representatives Thorn, Myers, Eddy, Robertson and Fleming opposed the resolution. Mr. Eddy said he "wants the truth to go back to the people."

Mr. Thorn said he had as much right as anybody to feel aggrieved at the Gazette's editorial policy, but that he recognizes the right of the press to obtain news and to comment on it editorially in any manner it sees fit. Mr. Robertson said he was not afraid that any man at the press table would misrepresent him. Mr. Myers asked Cannon to withdraw the motion. Mr. Fleming asked to find out about all the antics we pull and for that reason I think it would be a good idea to bar the Gazette reporter."

Cannon said the paper's policy is to "scratch the back that scratches mine," and said any reporter who does not write articles in a manner to carry forward the paper's editorial policy would "be fired."

Cannon's principal concern appears to be that he get due publicity for criticizing the paper. He said he hoped the Gazette would "have the moral courage to print what he said about it."

Mississippi House Passes Bond Bills

Makes More Stringent Issues by State, County, City and Districts

JACKSON, Miss.—(AP)—Temporary amendments to the general sales tax issue permitted passage Tuesday by the House of nine bills designed to make more stringent the issuance of bonds, and of a measure by the Senate proposing to oust from office by legislative Superintendent J. W. Williamson of the state penitentiary.

Eight of the House bills governing issuance of state, county, school district, road district, and other bonds, were offered to the House for final consideration by the Ways and Means Committee. All were aimed at making more rigid the laws regarding issuance of bonds and reducing the amount of bonds that can be legally issued by individual counties, municipalities or districts.

The ninth bill proposed creation of a permanent state bond board, with direct jurisdiction over issuance of state bonds, which would act as an advisory body in matters pertaining to bond issues by municipalities, counties, school and other taxing districts.

The House penitentiary bill passed by the Senate would abolish the office of superintendent of the penitentiary and provide for appointment of a penitentiary manager.

Clean-Up, Paint-Up Campaign Aided by Hope Legion Post

Repair Work Will Furnish Badly Needed Jobs to City's Unemployed

DRIVE TO APRIL 30

Local Organizations Wish to Brighten Up City's Appearance

In order to give employment to more people, the Hope American Legion post is to conduct an active campaign in support of the Chamber of Commerce Clean-Up and Paint-Up campaign, according to plans announced Wednesday. V. E. Smith, in charge of the unemployment committee, and J. L. Stringer, post commander, have offered to Joe Floyd, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, the support of the entire post in this drive.

It is the first organized attempt of any local organization to respond to a national campaign to relieve unemployment by creating new jobs, and dividing present jobs among additional people.

The Hope Legion post is appealing to the people in this section to give loyal support to Hope Chamber of Commerce in the clean-up and paint-up campaign, which started Monday morning, and is to continue until April 30. The following communication was delivered to the Chamber of Commerce Wednesday.

Letter to Chamber
Mr. Joe Floyd, Secretary, Hope Chamber of Commerce
Dear Sir: While Hope is an unusually clean and attractive city with many beauty spots of which any city might well be proud, there is an average amount of cleaning up, painting, remodeling and building which could best be done at this time, while labor and materials are so low in price.

It is the wish of the Leslie Huddleston post of the American Legion to respond to your appeal to civic organizations to co-operate with you in a spring clean-up and paint-up campaign.

We realize that there is only a small number of our people who are unemployed. We find, however, there is not a few, even among our own membership, who are without a job. That we may assist in doing everything possible to find employment for these men, we place our entire organization at your service to further your campaign.

Whether it be painting, papering, remodeling, building, or even general clean-up work each bit of work gives employment to some one for a limited time. Besides adding to the attractiveness and value of the property, and assisting in the sale of materials necessary to do the work.

Clean Up for Easter
With the approach of Easter, we trust the entire population of the city will attempt to do their part in cleaning up and painting up their properties.

We do this as our part of the nation-wide effort to relieve the unemployment situation by creating new jobs and spreading existing jobs among a greater number of people.

This movement was initiated by the National headquarters of the American Legion, with the assistance of the American Federation of Labor and the American Association of Advertising Agencies.

We respectfully request all of the people of Hope and Hempstead county to consider the savings in doing as much of this work as possible. We give you our own support, and offer to serve in any manner which will aid you in conducting this campaign.

Yours very truly,
J. L. STRINGER, COMMANDER
Leslie Huddleston Post, American Legion.

Threaten Auction of Ballot Boxes

Memphis Auditor to Sell Votes of Eight Crittenden County Precincts

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(AP)—A public auction of eight Arkansas ballot boxes, containing approximately 2,000 votes, was threatened here Wednesday by Edgar Cheatham, Memphis auditor, who says he has a claim for $350 against Crittenden county for auditing work.

The ballots, held in a Memphis bank, were attached Tuesday. Sheriff Howard Curdin charged Tuesday that the ballots were attached to prevent examination of the ballots by which the candidates of his political opponent, County Judge Oliver, was elected to the school board.

Cheatham claims any political motive for his action.

If judgment is allowed next Tuesday, Cheatham says he will attempt to sell the ballots to the highest bidder.

Kiddies Club Will Be Launched Here

Feature for Youngsters Sponsored at Saenger Saturday by P. T. A.

A "Kiddies Club" is being sponsored by the Hope P. T. A. council, according to plans completed by that organization at its meeting Tuesday afternoon at the Saenger theatre. Special entertainments for all children from 6 to 12 who enroll for the club, will be held at a matinee at the Saenger theatre each Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock.

The "Kiddies Club" party is to end with a special, and complete moving picture show. The P. T. A. council agreed to sponsor the Kiddies club, and to assist in furnishing the additional entertainment, in return for the privilege of censoring all films shown during this special matinee.

The first "Kiddies Club" party is scheduled for this Saturday. Mrs. Ward Dabney, a skilled dramatic leader, is to arrange the special program features. Students from each of the schools will be asked to take part. Mrs. Dorsey McRae is president of the P. T. A. Council, which is sponsoring these events each week.

Comproller Hits Waste in Counties

Red Tape and Top-Heavy Organization Consume 80% of Taxes, He Says

LITTLE ROCK.—Waste of public funds by county governments constitutes one of the greatest evils in Arkansas, State Comptroller Howard Reed said in an address before the Little Rock Kiwanis club Tuesday at the Hotel LaFayette.

He said that approximately 80 per cent of taxes go to support county governments. He referred to instances of treasurers of counties with small population receiving $5,000 a year as compensation for work, all of which is being done in some cases "by a little girl drawing $15 per month."

It is advertising of delinquent lands in Fulsburg county costs $11,000 a year, but results in recovery of only $1,200, the comptroller said. He pointed out that no publicity is given to delinquent personal taxes, although collection of these would "go a long way toward bringing about a wholesome condition of the county treasury."

The owner of a goat in Van Buren county received $2 from the county when the animal was killed by a dog, but the county spent $13 "going through the red tape of appraising the billy goat so the owner could get the money," Mr. Reed said.

He recalled that a sheriff, after making an arrest for operation of a still, for which he was entitled to $13 in fees, preferred five charges against the accused man, making it necessary for the county to pay him $65.

Mr. Reed reviewed the history of county audit legislation, of which his department has charge. He said that, as a result of investigations by his state, there have been four suicides and several former officials are serving penitentiary sentences.

Good Crowd Again Greeted Star Cook at Second Session

Rain Fails to Keep Housewives Away From the Saenger Wednesday

LECTURES ON CAKE

Mrs. Kate Stafford to Appear Again Thursday and Friday

Rain failed to keep enthusiastic housewives away from the Saenger theater Wednesday afternoon when Mrs. Kate Stafford began the second session of The Star's annual free Cooking School.

Mrs. Stafford demonstrated cakes and meat-dishes Wednesday, first lecturing on new recipes, and then making the actual dish in her model kitchen on the Saenger stage.

Wednesday's crowd was larger than at the opening session Tuesday, half-filling the ground floor of the big theater.

Mrs. Stafford was introduced Wednesday by Manager Elmer Hecht of the Saenger.

Her lecture-demonstration program begins at 2 o'clock, running through 4 o'clock.

The fourth annual school will close Friday afternoon, giving housewives of Southwest Arkansas only two more opportunities to hear this nationally known expert cook and obtain some of her choicest recipes which are being demonstrated this week for the first time in Hope.

Sinclair Station First to Paint Up

Depot at Third and Walnut Gets Busy for Paint-Up, Clean-Up Week

Claiming to be among the first to respond to the recent appeal of Hope Chamber of Commerce and allied city groups, for a Clean-Up and Paint-up campaign, is Good Brothers service station at the corner of Walnut and Third streets.

This spring clean-up drive was inaugurated by Joe Floyd, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, to start Monday, March 14, and to continue until April 30.

Early Monday morning the painting crew of the Sinclair Oil company, Arkansas division, arrived in Hope to start work on the service station structure at Third and Walnut. The entire building was spray-painted white, and trimmed in green. As completed, it adds considerably to the appearance of the business district.

It was planned to paint this building at the time it was leased by the Sinclair Oil company, and Good Brothers for their service station some weeks ago. However, the painting crew did not arrive until the morning of the first day of the civic campaign. All work of decorating was completed Tuesday, according to L. N. Good, manager. Sinclair products are handled exclusively at this station. Sidney Stanford is the local Sinclair agent.

It is the hope of the Chamber of Commerce to brighten up the appearance of the entire city of Hope during this campaign, both to add to the attractiveness of the city, and to provide employment while labor is cheap, and to stimulate the sale of things needed to carry on the campaign, while prices are low, according to Joe Floyd.

Cinnabar Ore in Pike County Brings "Rush"

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—The discovery of cinnabar ore, source of the metal mercury, has sent prospectors and mining men swarming into Southwest Arkansas in a hurry reminiscent of the gold rush days.

The little towns of Graysonia and Amity have become scenes of intense activity. Many prospectors are making headquarters at Murfreesboro.

Along the Cowhide creek, in Pine county, deposits of the ore have been found in a tract 2 miles long.

The strip extends into Clark and Howard counties. Dr. George O. Branner, state geologist, returning from a survey of the area, said several months will be required to determine fully the worth of the deposits. Experimental machinery is being brought in and virtually all available acreage has been sold or leased.

Liberalization of Crop Loans Likely

Mr. Couch Makes Urgent Representations to Secretary Hyde

WASHINGTON.—Harvey C. Couch of Arkansas, one of the leading representative members of the Federal Reconstruction Finance Corporation, was to leave Tuesday night for his home after a period of intense activity helping to launch the new $2,000,000,000 government credit agency. He plans to return in a few days.

An result of urgent but friendly representations made by Mr. Couch, Secretary of Agriculture Hyde probably will announce within the next few days a liberalization of the rules governing loans for crop production.

Mr. Couch has requested that the $400 limit to the individual farmer on loans for crop production be raised substantially. Many farmers and plantations in Arkansas and other states, he pointed out, virtually are denied aid with this provision in effect.

A bill approved by the Senate and now awaiting action in the House would make immediately available the entire $200,000,000 fund for loans authorized under the Federal Reconstruction Finance Corporation act.

The Finance Corporation will not handle the loans, the secretary of agriculture being designated as the government agent to extend credit to deservicing farmers.

City Attorney Is Ordered to Move For Quick Action

Mayor Also Empowered to Launch Anti-Mosquito Campaign

COUNTY IS BILLED

To Collect for Municipal Court—Action on Bad Factory Fire Hazard

Lower rates for telephone service and ice were demanded by city council Tuesday night in the "mosquito" fight. City Attorney Altkirk is taking immediate action to enforce a reduction in rates by companies.

The resolutions, which carried unanimously on a vote of the council, are as follows: "Be it resolved by the city council of the City of Hope that the city be charged by the Arkansas Telephone company, an Arkansas corporation, with the enforcement of a reduction in rates."

The resolutions, which carried unanimously on a vote of the council, are as follows: "Be it resolved by the city council of the City of Hope that the city be charged by the Arkansas Telephone company, an Arkansas corporation, with the enforcement of a reduction in rates."

It also developed at Tuesday night meeting of the council that the recent resolution authorizing payment of a city utility license tax in two parts was invalid because it sought to change an ordinance without passing an amended ordinance. The council therefore authorized an extension of the utility license deadline to May 16, and ordered the chief of police to advertise this fact in the newspapers.

Anti-Mosquito Campaign
Mayor John Vesey was authorized by the council to launch a mosquito eradication campaign, using a reasonable amount of municipal funds for that purpose.

The council acknowledged receipt of a letter from G. J. MacGregor, manager of Hope Basket company, asking for additional fire protection for his plant, and authorized Mayor Vesey to confer with Mr. MacGregor and the commissioners of Water Improvement District No. 1, reporting on the next meeting of the council.

Mr. MacGregor's letter, which was furnished to all the council, the mayor and the Star, recited that his concern and the avary Hauque company, Hope Bricks Works, Hope Lumber company, Hope Heading company, Union Compress & Warehouse, and Temple Cotton Oil company, outlined to the city government a year ago the need of more adequate water mains in the industrial section for fire protection. Continuing, Mr. MacGregor wrote:

"We know that every one of you should realize the value of the industries we have here to our city."

"We are not able to speak for the Hope Bricks Works, the Compress or the Temple Cotton Oil company, but we do know that the other three large plants which the city has would not be likely to rebuild here if they were destroyed by fire. It is only natural to believe that they would all move to a location closer to a source of supply of the timber which they use."

The council also authorized the city attorney to file a bill with Hempstead county for one-half of the expense of a Hope municipal court from October 24, 1931 to date. Municipal Judge L. A. Gentry in December won a circuit court decision against County Judge L. F. Higginson compelling him to convene the Quorum Court and advise them that joint support of a municipal court was state law. Judge Higginson subsequently recognized the Quorum Court, and it appropriated the necessary funds.

eyelids. They did not flicker and Steven's breathing barely stirred the sheet that covered him.

Presently Ellen was sent to wait in the living room beyond. Dr. Westcott told her with professional kindness to lie down but she could not lie down. She could only wait.

Another doctor arrived. Symes arrived. She heard cars sweeping up the driveway and heard the frantic, persistent ringing of the telephone. She heard doors open and shut but she was cut away from the activity and barred from Steven's side. She could only wait.

After a while a nurse rustled into the living room, snapped on the lights and told Ellen to be in readiness for a call. She urged Ellen to drink an ammonia solution but the girl would not nor would she lie down. She sat, pale and stiff, her hands clasped, her eyes filled with useless, burning tears. She prayed over and over that she might once again speak to Steven and look into his kind, brown eyes.

THE slow hours dragged on toward morning. Symes, haggard and unshaven, came to tell her what they were doing in the room beyond, came to tell her something else, as well, but she pleaded so frantically to be allowed to return to Steven that he kept silent, wondering, as he looked into her white, still face, if he had not been wrong after all. Presently he was away.

Ellen walked up and down the room and tried to think of Steven dead. The whispers, the alarmed eyes, the quick movements in the room beyond, even her own heart told her that Steven was dying.

The nurse entered again.

"What time is it?" Ellen asked dully.

"Half past five."

Ellen saw that dawn was breaking. She thought that soon it would be noon and then night and then noon again. Time would not stop even if Steven died while she waited outside his room. Why wouldn't they let her go to him? She was his wife. She had a right to be at his side. But had she? Ellen covered her face with her hands.

The nurse went away again. The room was very quiet.

Scents of the dawn drifted in from the garden, scents of flowers and grasses. Ellen heard the chirp of awakening birds and somewhere a dog barked.

She thought of home and felt a desperate nostalgia. She wanted to be with those who loved her, to be again in the shabby apartment on Pine street. Everyone was making it plain that she had no place here with her husband.

Ellen knelt by the window and rested her head on the sill. She sobbed out her grief and misery and Symes found her there when he came to tell her that Steven was regaining consciousness. Very gently he told her that she was to go to him.

Police Doctor

The best reason for having a telephone, as one telephone user says, is not having one. Here are some incidents that prove the point:

A simple line drawing showing a doctor in a white coat and cap examining a young child who is sitting on a small stool. A woman, presumably the mother, stands behind the child, looking on with a concerned expression. To the right of the child is a small table with a lamp on it. The scene is set indoors, likely in a home or a simple clinic.

Little Bobby fell downstairs. He was hurt and mother was frightened. But she wasn't too frightened to know what to do. She called up the doctor . . . and he was there in a few minutes.

It was only a stray cat in the basement, the policeman said. Mrs. Clark laughed . . . a little nervously. But what a comfort it was to know the telephone would bring help so quickly!

Snake Skin Seats

NEW YORK.—Snakes are doing their bit toward the advance of aviation. Manufacturers have found that snake skins provide the lightest, as well as one of the most serviceable materials for upholstery coverings in airplane furniture. Use of the skins enables a saving of many pounds of weight heretofore taken up by heavier materials.

When it rains it pours

Pedestrians crossing Tremont Street, Mass., during a heavy rain. It's the salt that keeps the streets from becoming so slippery.

Just 10c a month will enable you to enjoy the very best salt. Salt that never cakes or hardens. No matter how wet the weather. Made with cube-shaped crystals, which tumble one another instead of sticking together like the flake crystals of inferior salts. Morton's Iodized Salt pours just as freely on rainy days as on dry. And it also protects children against simple, yet serious, cause of loss of appetite, lack of vitality and backwardness at school.

COUNTY

A county highway program providing for the construction of a certain amount of all-weather road each year, to gradually reduce the toll of mileage.

Political and economic support for every scientific agricultural program which offers practical benefits to Hempstead county's greatest industry.

Encourage farmer organizations, believing that co-operative effort is as practical in the country as it is in town.

STATE

Continued progress on the state highway program.
 Fearless tax reform, and a more efficient government through the budget system of expenditures.

The State Versus the Judges

STATEMENTS issued in advance of their meeting in Little Rock Tuesday indicate what kind of a selfish, short-sighted plea the county judges mean to put up to the legislature while trying to force that body to increase the gasoline tax from 6 cents to 7.

Charles T. Coleman, author of the Martineau highway legislation and who has drafted most of the road laws since 1927, told the committees of the House and Senate on Monday that "either the county judges must give up their one cent share of the 6-cent gas tax, or the state will require a 7-cent tax in order to meet the funded highway debt."

The following day the judges announced in the newspapers that they had "contracted indebtedness for road purposes in the belief that the state turnback would provide the money for paying the obligations. The judges told of machinery and other equipment which has been acquired with the understanding that it would be paid for with allotments from the state treasurer. If they are deprived of the turnback it will be impossible to pay these debts, they said."

The judges put themselves in the incredible light of obtaining a note under false pretenses and then selling it off to an innocent purchaser to prevent its recovery. What they are trying to say is, "If you throw a rock at me now it won't hit me—it will hit somebody else."

But the record of the lobbying group known as the County Judges association doesn't warrant us in supposing that an innocent man ever got within a hundred miles of them.

The judges put through their tax hike in 1931, raising the gasoline levy from 5 to 6 cents, in order to pay themselves larger salaries—and now they are perfectly willing to force the state, if they can, to vote a 7-cent tax rather than shake loose of their prize.

There is this further point which the people never will be able to forget: The state had already relieved the counties and districts of their bonded debt and now has the only bonded road debt within Arkansas; to meet this emergency it is only common honesty and every-day loyalty for each citizen and office-holder to buckle down to work in the most economical manner possible.

The judges, we may anticipate, will refuse to do that.
 They always have. They never built roads. They only bled the state for money with which to pay themselves and to pay some day-labor just before election day.

You know in advance that no Arkansas legislature is going to allow these seventy-five local politicians to make the boys at Little Rock the "goat" by passing another tax increase at this time.

This newspaper hammered hard against the proposed increase from 5 to 6 cents a year ago, we lost. But representatives Pilkinton and Cannon voted against it—and not hearing to the contrary, we are confident that they will fight the 7-cent tax also, perhaps with sufficient strength from other quarters to win this time.

Transatlantic Air Mail

REVELATION before a Congressional committee that the backers of those proposed transoceanic dirigible lines are ready to spend $15,000,000 on giant airships if the United States will grant contract mail privileges indicates that the day of regular commercial aeronautical service beyond the seas is not far away.

By this time the big dirigibles have pretty clearly proven their reliability. And evidently a number of unemotional financiers have concluded that transoceanic dirigible service could be made dependable and safe enough to warrant investment of a huge sum of money.

That puts it up to Congress. The present may be a poor time to come seeking a mail subsidy for a new venture of this kind; but it is clear that the establishment of such air lines is not very far away. If the plan fails this year, it will probably go through next year or the year after.

The Capone Proposal

PREPOSTEROUS as the idea sounds, it actually might be a very good thing if Al Capone could be let out of jail to hunt for the Lindbergh baby.

In the first place, he could probably find it and get it safely to its parents.

In the second place, such a step would bring home to all of us a realization of the scandalous way in which we have let gangsters erect an invisible government in the United States.
 The underworld has a frightening amount of power; most of the time we escape being frightened simply by refusing to admit that conditions are as they are.

If, however, we actually had to call on Al Capone to do what the forces of law and order couldn't do, we could no longer delude ourselves. And the shock of realization might force us to get together and do something about it.

The Sales Tax Is an Equal Burden on Us All!

Japan might as well stop beating around the bush and come right out with it. All she wants from China is China.

Huey Long is a Chinese general, an Ohio Wesleyan student wrote in an to let us know who he is, too!

The reason Louisville isn't broke is because it has been spending only what it received, says the mayor. But that plan is much too complicated for most officeholders.

Another advantage of the depression is that you aren't told at every turn that you can't stand prosperity.

The rich can't stand any more taxes, says Congress. Well, that's all right.
 Of course the poor can.

THAT "HOTTEST STORY"—!

If Drew More Newspaper Men to the Lindbergh Estate Than Were Needed to Cover the Whole World War

By Dexter H. Teed

Newspaper reporters interview Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the New Jersey State Police.

HOPEWELL, N. J.—(NEA)—When old Paul Gebhart, grumbling responded to an excited pounding on the door of his luncheon a few hours after midnight on March 2, he little realized that he was admitting the vanguard of an army of newspapermen outnumbering four or five to one the correspondents with the American army during the World war.

But he soon found out. "The Lindbergh baby has been kidnapped!" painted the early arrival. "Greatest story that ever was... Gimme some coffee... Is that the only telephone? There'll be more, brother, plenty more... Don't use that little coffee pot. Put on a wash boiler. Every newspaperman in New York and points south is on his way here... BOY! What a story!"

Motley, But Fast

And so they came. Photographers lugging cameras, tripods and bulky boxes of flashlight bulbs. Reporters by the score, some in high-powered cars, but not one with luggage, because of the speed with which they had been despatched. Newsreel and sound movie men, pushing their truck over the dark, twisting New Jersey roads. Special writers, correspondents of foreign newspapers, bewildered by the turmoil and excitement of American speed in handling a big story. Radio engineers and announcers, carrying portable broadcasting equipment.

The little town of Hopewell, of about 1500 population, hadn't had such a thrill since Revolutionary days. But it found itself suddenly occupied by more than 450 men and women intent on rushing the Lindbergh story to the breathless world.

One Wild Scramble

Headquarters were established in Gebhart's restaurant, a ramshackle three-story frame building. The Lindbergh home is three miles away, but this is the nearest place where telephones, food and shelter to catch forty winks are available. It is a wild scramble for news.

The little railroad station has been transformed into a beehive of activity. Special telegraph wires, scores of instruments and round-the-clock shifts of operators have been installed there. There is no waiting in the waiting room. It is jammed with reporters at temporary benches, pounding out stories for the wires.

Gebhart's is jammed one minute and empty the next. Even the wildest rumors have to be investigated, and each hot tip sends the news men rushing over the roads to run down clues.

Frequently farmers aroused from sleep in the hours after midnight greet the newspaper men with ready shotguns and refuse to talk until reporters prove their identities. When it looks as if a big "break" is imminent pilots are whisked to the improvised airport on Peter Voorhes' farm, airplane motors are warmed up and preparations are made to fly late pictures to New York or elsewhere.

As many as eight are sleeping in one room on the upper floors of the lunch room. Others are quartered in private homes. Still others nap where they happen to be—and take no chances of missing a "break."

The situation in Trenton, 11 miles away, is somewhat quieter. There these covering the case meet in a bare room in the State House, having only chairs and tables as furniture. A lieutenant of state police obtains questions from the reporters at regular intervals, then telephones Major Charles A. Schoeffel, deputy superintendent of state police, at the Lindbergh home, asks the questions and reads the replies to the newspaper men.

News men waiting for a "break" at Englewood, home of Mrs. Dwight Morrow. Mrs. Lindbergh's mother, stay in the police station and get what information is available. The Morrow home is heavily guarded by officers armed with riot guns. Much the same situation exists at Newark.

Magnolia College Band Will Present Minstrel

MAGNOLIA, Ark.—G. G. Martel, of the Magnolia A. and M. College faculty and one time professional "trouper" announces the college band will present an old-fashioned minstrel show with new songs and new jokes. Dan Mathews, Magnolia, and Martel will act as end men, assisted by Theo and Dale Middlebrooks of Patmos. Members of the boys and girls glee clubs will sing. Samuel Junkin, Mt. Holly, baritone, will present several songs. Tap dances under Miss Elfred Davis, physical education instructor, will give several numbers.

Funds derived from the show will be used to help defray the expenses of the band on its trip to the Confederate Veteran's Convention in Richmond, Va.

12 Hope Students In Honor Society

Ed Jack McCabe Presides Over Ceremony at High School

Tuesday morning there was observed at Hope High School a ceremony which it is hoped will be traditional—the formal induction of new members into the National Honor Society. This year seven seniors and five juniors were administered the pledge by Ed Jack McCabe, president, one of the three remaining seniors left in the chapter after last year's graduation. The other two members who were taken in last year are, Taylor Alexander, vice-president, and Avis Wilson, secretary-treasurer.

Standing so that the group outlined a keystone, the new members lighted their torches from the president's and pledged themselves to give their efforts toward making the ideals of their school, character, scholarship, leadership and service. The seniors who were taken in are: Alberta Robertson, Aubrey Wood, Minnie Owen, Bernard O'Steen, Vera Van Sickle, Katherine Bryant and Lois Lingo. The juniors were: Lane Taylor, Luther Holloman, Willie Smith, Mozelle Lewis and Victor Cobb.

Ed Jack McCabe as chairman emphasized the significance of the honor. "No honor which the school can give exceeds the honor of election to membership in this organization," Avis Wilson read the communication from the faculty certifying the selection of the 12 candidates. Miss Henry spoke on the aims of the Society and Taylor Alexander explained the symbol of the emblem. Avis Wilson read the constitution which the new members signed replying themselves to the ideals for which the organization stands.

The National Honor Society is installed only in those schools which belong to a standardizing agency such as the North Central Association.

Railway Gets Loan

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission approved a Reconstruction Finance Corporation loan of $100,000 Monday for the Fort Smith and Western railway.

The money is to be used for paying overdue bills for materials, supplies, car repairs, rentals and other indebtedness not exceeding $43,322; payment of taxes in Oklahoma for the year 1930 totaling $42,663, and bank loans matured February 4, totaling $55,000.

Cannot Ban Imports

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Secretary Mills held Tuesday that under present laws the government is powerless to impose a general ban against importation of Russian products. That was his answer to a delegation headed by Senator Coddie (R., Nev.) which asked that Soviet products be excluded.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—(AP)—From a collection of firearms he had made over a period of years, George Eastman selected a pistol of high velocity, one of the most powerful of all small arms in use, with which to end his life at his home here Monday.
